MINERVA YOUNG WOMEN'S BUSINESS SUMMER PROGRAM

Minerva is a week-long residential academic camp on The University of Alabama campus for rising female high school seniors to encourage and develop their leadership skills and expose them to business as a major and career path, with an emphasis on areas where women are underrepresented, including leadership.

- Participate in informative sessions with Culverhouse College of Business faculty and staff
- Learn about career opportunities in business
- Build leadership and communication skills
- Complete a service project
- Take field trips for experiential learning
- Experience campus life
- Connect with like-minded women interested in business.

COST?

The program costs $850. Full or partial scholarships will be available on a limited basis thanks to the Women in Business Conference and Minerva sponsors.

The program fee includes UA residential hall accommodations, all meals, classroom sessions with UA Culverhouse faculty, expert advice on applying to college (including seminars on admissions requirements, financial aid, and housing), field trips, service project, supplies, Minerva t-shirt, a closing banquet for students and parents, group photo, and certificate of completion.

Additional information can be found at diversity.culverhouse.ua.edu/minerva.

If you have any further questions, please contact Cherie Moman, at csmomoman@ua.edu or 205-348-8940.
